THE following Genealogical Narrative of the Hart Family in the United States, is a work to which was dedicated the closing years in the life of our mother, the late Mrs. Sarah S. Young. With patient labor and inquiry, through seven years, she traced the extensive family from its original progenitor in America, Thomas Hart, of London, England, A. D. 1690, down to the present generation. It was a labor of love, which closed only with her life, in June, 1881. Two days before the commencement of her last illness, she completed the record, and was preparing to write the dedication to the vast kindred, when the fatal sickness intervened. The manuscript, which probably could not be replaced by any living person, was carefully preserved, and is now presented to the descendants of Thos. Hart, of Hanover, by the children of the compiler, as a complete chart of a family which has not been unknown in the history of our country.

J. P. YOUNG.

C. L. FICKLEN.

JUNE 10th, 1882.

THOMAS HART,

THE great ancestor of the Hart family in the United States, emigrated from London about A. D. 1690, and settled in Hanover County, Virginia, where he died, leaving an only son, Thomas Hart, who was about eleven years of age when his father arrived in Virginia. Of the elder Thomas Hart little is known, except that he was a merchant, and probably, late in life a blind man.

Thomas Hart, the son, married Susanna Rice, of Hanover, the aunt of the Rev. Daniel Rice, of the Presbyterian Church, who settled in Kentucky in the year 1781. ^{David} Thomas Hart, Jr., died in Hanover about the year 1755, leaving six CHILDREN.

Thomas, John, Benjamin, David, Nathaniel, and Ann, all of whom, with their mother, migrated to Orange County, North Carolina, about 1760.

THOMAS HART'S DESCENDANTS.

COLONEL THOMAS HART, eldest son of Thomas Hart, of Hanover, Virginia, and Susanna Rice, was a member of the Provincial Congress of North Carolina in 1774, and, some years later, an officer in the Revolutionary army. He was likewise one of the proprietors of the Transylvania Company, to whom the Legislature of North Carolina donated 200,000 acres of land in what is now known as Henderson county, Kentucky, as a compensation for their services in opening the wilderness and preparing the way for civilization in that State. Colonel Hart married Susanna Gray, of North Carolina, and continued to reside at Hartford, his county seat, until 1789, when he removed to Hagarstown, Maryland, and from thence to Lexington, Kentucky, in 1794, where he remained until his death, which occurred June 23, 1808, Mrs. Hart surviving him until 1832.

Lucretia Hart, youngest daughter of Col. Thomas Hart and Susanna Gray, was born March 18, 1781, at Hagarstown, Maryland, and, at the age of thirteen, removed with her parents to Lexington, Kentucky. On April 11, 1799, she married Henry Clay, then a promising young lawyer of the Lexington bar, a Virginian, born in Hanover, April 12, 1777. He represented Fayette county, for a number of years, in the Kentucky Legislature, and was elected to the Senate of the United States in 1806, and continued a member of Congress, either as Representative or Senator, with occasional intermissions, until his death, which occurred in Washington City, D. C., June 29, 1852. Mr. Clay was the idol of his friends, and was considered one of, if not the greatest, statesman of the age.

The larger part of Mrs. Clay's married life was spent at Ashland, the beautiful residence of her husband, near Lexington, Kentucky.

She accompanied Mr. Clay to Washington while he was Secretary of State, and remained with him during that time, making many warm and devoted friends. After her return to Kentucky, she retired altogether from society, owing to the death of several of her daughters, and the terrible affliction of her son Theodore; but she was ever ready to receive and welcome her husband's guests with the hospitality for which she was noted. She was a woman of fine mind and great strength of character. Her manner was cold and reserved; but, although undemonstrative, her heart was full of deep feeling and tenderness. Full of self-abnegation, just and kind to all, she lived a long life of usefulness, and, on the 4th of April, 1864, at the age of eighty-three, she died, sustained by the beautiful and child-like faith that had characterized her whole life.

NATHANIEL HART'S DESCENDANTS.

NATHANIEL HART, fifth son of Thomas Hart, of Hanover, Virginia, and Susannah Rice, was born in 1734, and at an early age removed with his mother to North Carolina. In 1760 he married Sarah Simpson, daughter of Col. Richard Simpson and Miss Kinchelo, living near Alexandria, Virginia, and resided at his county seat, the Red House, in Caswell county, North Carolina, until his removal to Kentucky in 1779.

In 1760 Capt. Hart commanded a company for the suppression of an insurrection which threatened the overthrow of the government, and for his bravery, while in the discharge of the arduous and hazardous undertaking, was handsomely complimented by the officers of the government.

In 1785 he was instrumental in forming a company, consisting of himself, two brothers—Thomas Hart and David Hart—with three other gentlemen, for the purchase of Transylvania from the Indians, which purchase was secured to them by an act of the General Assembly of Virginia in 1778.

Capt. Hart continued to reside near Boonesboro, Kentucky, where his family had been protected from the Indians, until 1782, when he was killed by them, riding out near the fort.

Capt. Hart was not scalped, as erroneously stated in the History of Kentucky, his children having affirmed the contrary, nor did his murderers escape. They were overtaken by their pursuers, and the shoe and knee buckles they had taken from the body of Capt. Hart recovered. These relics are now in the possession of his great grandson, Richard Hart Shaw, residing near Horn Lake, DeSoto county, Mississippi.

Chinoe (Indian name for Kentucky), youngest daughter of Nathaniel Hart and Sarah Simpson, was not, as has been stated, the first white child born in Kentucky. The exact location of her birth cannot now be ascertained, but it occurred in Virginia, October 25, 1779, in which State her father left his family on their route from North Carolina to Kentucky, while he went forward to the then wilderness country to prepare their future home. The perilous journey was completed in 1780, and they were compelled to seek refuge from the hostile Indians in the fort at Bonesboro, at which place and vicinity they remained until Mr. Hart's assassination by the Indians. Her mother's death occurring soon after, she, and her younger brothers and sisters, found a home in the family of their brother-in-law, Col. Isaac Shelby, and were reared by them as their own children.

In 1797 she married John Smith, of Frankfort, member of Kentucky Legislature, and died in Shelby county, Tennessee, at the advanced age of ninety years and three months.
